

Environmental footprints

Tomas Rydberg, Swedish Environmental Research Institute, Sweden

Environmental footprinting has become increasingly popular. In addition to widely-applied carbon footprint, other footprints such as chemical footprints have emerged and are attracting the interest of industries and authorities. This session gives the floor to all LCA based footprint initiatives, including recently promoted Product Environmental Footprint (PEF) and Organisation Environmental Footprint (OEF). The exception is water footprint to which is dedicated a special session.